Rector's Letter

As I write this, it is officially spring, and I can see new life springing green all around me. It seems to have been a wetter than usual winter, but the lovely daffodils are fully out, the sun has begun to shine, and the spring flowers are holding their heads high again.

We are all part of that natural cycle; the flower grows, dies, the seeds lie dormant in cold dark winter, and spring into new life as the days lengthen and the light increases.

So much of our Easter symbolism is woven into that natural cycle. Seeds require both time in the dark and increased light to grow. We too need the dark to see the light, and need patience when times are hard to grow spiritually. As the poet Bonnie Thurston says, 'I remind pilgrims: Take heart. He will come.' Her poem By Design Seasonal (see below) guides us to live with the joys of every season, to live in the dark and the light, in the fullness of life secured for us by the Passion and Resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ.

All are welcome to all our services - the most up-to-date details are on our website or sign up for our weekly Pewsheet.

Look out for the Byton 5th Sunday service on May 31st. There will be activities during the day, and community singing at 4:00. Come and join in the fun.

Rev'd Anna Branston

By Design Seasonal

One might wish to save
This perfect spring day
Against the darkness
And death of winter,
Somehow preserve
Spring's green palette,
It's white to gold,
It's pink to crimson
Seen in clarity of light
Undimmed by summer haze.
But life, by design
Is seasonal, its joys
Found in being present,
Awake where we are.

I wish you all a very happy Easter and springtime.

Bishops / Arch-Deacon's News

I'm at Whitby on the North East coast. It's now more famous for Dracula and gatherings of Goths, but it played a very important role in the development of Christianity in these Islands. The Synod of Whitby was held near here in 664, 12 years before the foundation of the diocese of Hereford. It was summoned by St. Hilda's double monastery at Streonshalh, later called Whitby Abbey. Its main purpose was to set the date of Easter and decide on haircuts for monks. The first had more political significance than the other. The ancient Celtic church centred on Iona in Scotland and its extensive network of daughter houses still observed an 84 year Easter Cycle, whereas the new tradition kept in Rome by this time was a 19 year cycle adopted from the church in Alexandria. In the kingdom of Northumbria, these two traditions co-existed, as each had been encouraged by different royal houses. At one time this led to visible disunity in the Northumbrian court. Queen Eanfled observed a different day to King Oswiu. One faction was celebrating Easter while the other was still observing Lent! The result of the Synod was the adoption of Roman practices. The Ionian monks threw their toys out of the pram and went back to Iona and carried on their traditional practice. Whitby marked a transition away from a dispersed church towards a more centralised one much more entwined with political power. Hilda was a key player in the conversations. She already had a reputation for wisdom and was frequently consulted by local kings for advice. Bede wrote, "All who knew her called her mother because of her outstanding devotion and grace". The Synod was largely a conversation between clerics, although King Oswiu, who presided, eventually made the judgement. Unlike many medieval Synods, it was quite likely a short meeting of a day or part of a day. Nicaea took 8-10 weeks! Councils in the Bible were probably more like Whitby than Nicaea. The Council of Jerusalem recorded in Acts 15 to discuss how gentiles were to be incorporated into the growing (but then largely Jewish) church was probably short also. That's a Council that is worth studying in some detail. The Church has frequently been confronted with difficult decisions. Sadly, the really intractable ones often lead to division. We managed to stay more or less together until the great schism of the 11th century between east and west. But since the reformation, the slightest disagreement seems to have resulted in new denominations. We are at about 22,000 and counting now. Some of these splits are about deeply held convictions. Others, sadly, are more to do with power and the recognition of legitimate authority, as indeed Whitby was. Unity is much more important than we protestants have traditionally given it credit. Jesus cited the way we get on with each other as the best evidence for the Gospel. A desire for institutional unity flows from that conviction. Our culture doesn't promote the idea of disagreeing agreeably. I think it's an especially important part of our current witness and calling. We need the wisdom of the Hildas to navigate the choppy waters of disagreement. Part of the love for others she no doubt advocated was a desire to see Christ in one another. We do well to avoid caricaturing and ascribing motives to those with whom we disagree. I have mercifully given up social media for Lent, but before I stopped, I did notice on some of the change advocate streams around the LLF debate a tendency to see those on the more traditional side as in some way psychologically inadequate. Their position, incomprehensible to those who advocate for change, couldn't be a genuine conviction about biblical texts coherent with the churches reading of them for 2000 years and which still remains the interpretation of most biblical scholars, both liberal and conservative. It had to be something about their childhood or personality that predisposed them to a rigid way of thinking. Conversely, the tendency of some on the traditional side to regard advocates for change as biblically illiterate was equally unpleasant. When we get into ad hominem arguments of this type we are in deep trouble. We will just have to accept that people come to different conclusions whilst holding an equal regard of the authority of the biblical material and a desire to witness to the gospel. The talk of different spaces, third provinces or delegated episcopal oversight as a means of resolving our current difficulties is frankly bonkers in a diocese like ours. I doubt whether any of our churches have sufficient cultural and theological homogeneity to choose one way or the other without blowing the Church up through an unholy row or splitting congregations away from their clergy. Neither seem especially desirable to me. While the conversation continues, which from the recent vote of General Synod it will, we will just have to love one another, be kind to each other, think the best of one another, accept one another, and welcome LGBTQI+ people to worship, as I hope we have always done. We need the wisdom of Hildas and Milburgas and the kindness of the Aidans and our other founding saints to chart a course together.

Lyonshall FOOD BANK collection point

St. Michael and All Angels church at Lyonshall now has a collection box to receive items of food and toiletries for the local Kington Food Bank. In these days of uncertainty, the food bank is very much in need to help those who find themselves in difficult situations. All donations of non-perishable food with good use-by dates can be placed in the collection box inside the church, all items would be very much appreciated and gratefully received with thanks.

MU Arrowvale Branch Report

The January meeting of Arrowvale MU was held over lunch at Sarah's house. There had been a lot of rain beforehand, and not all members were able to attend because some roads were flooded. However, a good discussion took place based on a quotation from Jeremiah 29: v 11 "For I know the plans I have for you" declares the Lord, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future." This was God's promise to his people in exile in Babylon, but also appropriate as our thought for the year. Also discussed was the passage in St Matthew when Jesus was anointed by an unnamed woman with some very expensive perfume, to the disapproval of his disciples. Subscriptions were now due. Despite the bread for lunch not getting through the floods, enough was found to accompany the soup for an enjoyable meal! Unfortunately, because Shrove Tuesday was early this year and members had other responsibilities, it was decided we would not be able to hold the pancake cafe. In February we held our A.G.M., again hosted by Sarah. The Branch Leader's report was read and the Treasurer's report given. Both were proposed and seconded for our records. It was also proposed that the current officers stay in place and this was seconded and agreed. Plans for the year were put forward. We hope to have a talk in June from Hereford MU Trustee Anne Newman about the MU's work in Hereford. In September we would like to have a communion service in Bearwood Chapel again. Lady Day services are being held at Cusop on the 10th of March and at Much Wenlock on the 26th of March. Sarah will be attending both and happy to take other members. Also—during this special year celebrating 150 years since the founding of the MU—our Trustees are hoping that MU branches will hold their own celebrations on the 9th of August as well as going to Colwall to join with them in the afternoon. The MU is also taking part in Choral Evensong in Hereford Cathedral on the 23rd of August. The A.G.M. part of the meeting was closed with the Grace. As we enjoyed our tea we focussed our thoughts on Christians in Nigeria. This year the World Day of Prayer service was written by the women of Nigeria, and many churches hold this service on the first Friday in March. They had chosen a theme based on the Gospel of St Matthew, chapter 11:28-30, which was 'I will give you rest: Come.' This was very poignant when Sarah told us about the real danger Christians are facing in areas of Nigeria where religious persecution is taking place. Some Churches have been burnt and their congregations attacked and killed. Arrowvale was represented at the Lady Day service at Cusop on the 10th March. This was a chance to share Communion with other MU members. Our Chaplain, the Revd Penny Littlewood led the Eucharist to commemorate the Annunciation of the Virgin Mary. The MU welcomes new members and our leader, Sarah Westaby, would be pleased to give you more information. Please contact her as follows:

A Snapshot of Byton Part 4: Then, and Now

Thank you for joining us once again in our Snapshot of Byton series. In our previous parts we have followed the story of the Rice family with their move to Byton to escape World War II, and the life they forged for themselves here, becoming part of the community. Looking through this lens for the final time, we hope to leave everyone a picture to remember, in what will be the fourth and final chapter for Byton and the Rice family.

If nothing else, this series has shown that Byton life in the 1940s was not easy, but it was a lot simpler. There was no mains electricity or water, which had to be retrieved from the 'lovely' Welsh mountains surrounding the village, provided the well hadn't dried out in summer. Of course, gas masks were collected from the school, and nights were spent by the oil lamp, consulting Mrs Beeton's Cookery Book, to see what you could fashion on the old coal range.

In the day, Elizabeth's husband, the Rector, would cycle to where he needed, although deliveries were made for milk, and meat from the butcher. Meanwhile Elizabeth would be part of WWI proceedings, which held a big part in village life, alongside whist drives at Kinsham Village Hall, and of course the church that brought everyone together.

And so, back to where we began, returning to Byton in 2004, the right photo showcases Elizabeth Rice on her 90th birthday, surrounded by her family, with her children on the right (like Bridget's husband, they all became judges/barristers), revisiting her family home.

In the left picture, we see Paul Segrott, the man behind these stories who unearthed this series, sat in the drawing room of the Rectory with Rosemary, and Sarah Broadbent, who—when Bridget returned in 2004 to see her old home—came back with everyone for coffee.

Byton provided a respite from the greater dangers of war in Europe; A close-knit community of evacuees and local residents all in the same boat; and most importantly, a home, one which for the Rice's was especially welcoming and warm, the spirit of which persists to this day.

Thank you all for joining us on this photographic journey through Byton's past, and those who made it possible. We look forward to seeing you all again for our next series!

SHOBDON NEWS

Exciting news for Shobdon

In the past, Shobdon hasn't really had a central meeting point. The Bateman Arms is open and welcoming. There's the Airfield which has occasional events and Meg's Café – always good for food, and drink up until 4pm. The Village Hall, shared with the school, can be used for events in the evening, weekend and school holidays. Now, more possibilities have opened up with the Old Methodist Chapel next to the Green, purchased by the Parish Council.

The Old Chapel has been tastefully renovated with a new kitchen, toilets and easier access whilst maintaining its character. It's a friendly space, and can hold up to 50 people.

We already have some regular users, namely:

- a Coffee Morning on the first Wednesday of the month 9.30 – 11.00
- a monthly Music group on the second Tuesday of the month, 6.30 -9.30pm
- a Bible Study Group on the first Monday of the month from 2.00 – 4.00pm
- a Prayer Group on the fourth Wednesday of the month 11am to 1pm.

There are also one -off meetings and meetups.

We will be hosting H/Art 5th – 13th September. Be sure to call in for this event, and to later pop into The Bateman Arms for refreshments.

Whereas there are continued events in the evenings at the Village Hall shared with the school, the Old Chapel presents new opportunities, particularly for daytime events.

If you want to know more about the existing groups, would like to hire any of the available spaces, or have ideas for new groups, use the contact details below.

Staunton on Arrow WI - SOAWI Committee Report for 2025-2026

Our small friendly group has enjoyed a varied programme of events in 2025, and our book club and walking group meet regularly to extend our interests. Early in the year we enjoyed a fabulous guided tour of Berrington Hall Gardens by the head gardener there as part of our organised programme for June, finishing the evening with a bring-and-share picnic all to ourselves in the courtyard of the hall, and bathed in glorious warm summer sunshine.

We are fortunate to have the River Arrow meandering right on our doorstep, so we couldn't not get involved in Himalayan Balsam bashing this year, and Heather Owens—one of our members—organised a group of volunteers to do just that. Before the flowers sow their seeds, we made a big effort to clear as much foliage as possible along the local banks.

We had two teams entered again this year in the HFWI quiz, The Staunton Belles and The Staunton Bowes, the Bowes came a credited 2nd in the final competition, losing out by only one point! We will be back.

Our WI book club continues to grow in strength and enthusiasm; we have a regular attendance of 10 ladies. We have read a wide range of books, both non-fiction and fiction, and we discuss each in detail. Our favourite book as a group of 2025 was 'Hamnet' by Maggie O'Farrell, closely followed by 'American Dirt' by Jeanine Cummings. We meet on a monthly basis and each meeting is led by a different member according to their interests.

Our walking group has tried to make the most of our challenging weather with a local 4.5 mile walk to the toposcope in May, to appreciate the bluebells on the way up and the views when we got to the top. We also did a 4.5-mile circular walk in September around Hergest Ridge with brunch to follow. We have had a couple of cinema trips to Ludlow and in May we went to see 'On The Black Hill' recommended by our book club, and filmed locally in the Black Mountains. Then more recently we saw Hamnet, also filmed locally in Weobley, and a book club favourite too.

The highlight of the year continues to be our Harvest Supper in October which is a great fund raiser and social event with friends and family invited along too. This year we made a donation of £154 to Midlands Air Ambulance from our raffle. Also, in October, some of us started attending a keep fit class in the village hall which continues to be very successful. On the theme of health and this year's resolution 'Accessible Public Toilet Facilities' our January meeting was 'Pilates for pelvic floor health' which proved very popular indeed.

We have tried to support local businesses again this year, and in December we had a very jolly festive evening with White Heron Drinks, and then a Post Christmas lunch at The Cider Barn in January. We've also made donations to Kington Food Bank along the way. We will be supporting the village Coffee Spot in March coinciding with IWD, and so we'll promote our talented WI group with volunteers making bunting decorations, baking cakes & biscuits, and serving tea and coffee to the locals.

We haven't welcomed any new members to our group in 2025-26 and unfortunately due to ill health and change of circumstances we have lost three members, so our membership at the time of writing is 28 but we look forward to the promise of more new members in the coming year. The committee have continued with 9 members for 2026 and we have created two new positions of Vice President and Vice Secretary to support the existing roles. We initiated a survey within the group earlier in the year to collect members interests and talents, for reference and possible use as activities in our future programmes. This was very useful. We'd like to thank our members for their committed support and friendship this past year, and we are looking forward to another successful year ahead.

Pembridge Almshouse Charity – Almshouse Opening!

The almshouse is available to older people and those without economic stability who live within the Arrowvale parishes and who can live independently. Pembridge - Cherishing our Churchyard

As I write this, it is mid-March and I have been out spotting flower seedlings emerging in the wildflower area to see what we can look forward to later in the summer. As well as plentiful Ox-eye Daisies, Hawkbits, and Knapweed, I found tiny leaves of Germander Speedwell and Yellow Rattle. This latter—an annual plant also known as hay rattle—is nicknamed 'meadow maker' because it is parasitic on grasses, stealing nutrients from their roots and weakening them, allowing other meadow flowers to flourish. Look out for the yellow flowers in June and July. I will also be looking forward to spending a relaxing half hour or so watching the bees, hoverflies, butterflies, and other pollinators visiting the wildflower area throughout the spring and summer.

A Smallholders Life & Times

After such a prolonged and dismal spell of wet weather, what a relief to be able to do ordinary tasks such as hanging the washing out and mowing the lawn.

New shoots are sprouting everywhere. Drifts of snowdrops have been replaced with swaths of yellow daffodils. There is a spectacular display of white blossom on my flowering currant (ribes sanguineum), I have heard the distant drilling of a woodpecker, and for the first time there is frogspawn in my garden pond. All are encouraging signs.

Driving a car has become an interesting experience, looking out for and swerving around so many potholes, I am glad that at last the large pot hole (which was more like a crater) in the lane near "Mere" has been filled in. I am also grateful that my driveway hedges have been trimmed before the March deadline, saving me a lot of work climbing up and down a ladder. The time for trimming hedges between September to March always seems to coincide with the wettest weather...

The tractor wheels would leave deep ruts and churn the ground up, now after two years without being trimmed, most of my field hedges are becoming overgrown with brambles and black thorns, although last autumn the blackberries and sloes were a bonus!

There seems to be a fine line between protecting nesting birds and keeping our unique hedgerows in order.

I am looking forward to a break at Easter, when the clocks go forward, and most of all: it will be wonderful to wear boots instead of wellingtons.
